

ALTERNATOR VALVE

The Bull Run Valve is designed to alternate flows to different absorption areas of the sewage treatment system. The Bull Run Valve is commonly used in Kalamazoo County. Using a special tool at grade, a homeowner or other user switches the valve annually from one absorption area to another by simply turning the valve from the ground surface with the appropriate tool. The user has no contact with wastewater because the valve is leak-proof.

