MICHIGAN AREA AGENCIES ON AGING

Michigan's 16 area agencies on aging (AAAs) are regional planning, advocacy and administrative agencies designated by the Michigan Commission on Services to the Aging. A board of directors made up of local community members governs each AAA. The Michigan Dept. of Health and Human Services, Aging and Adult Services Agency contracts with AAAs to plan and provide needed services to seniors in specified geographic regions of the state. AAAs arrange for the delivery of services through community agencies.

For more information about services to seniors, please contact the Aging and Adult Services Agency.
